The NRC at Passaic County Community College provides non-credit and credit training courses in:

- Healthcare
- Information Technology
- Energy Technology/Environment

Who We Are

Passaic County Community College is the lead institution in the Northeast Resiliency Consortium. The Consortium is a collaboration of seven community colleges located in the Northeast.

Membership includes: Atlantic Cape, Bunker Hill, Capital, Housatonic, Kingsborough, and LaGuardia Community College. Other partnerships include: Achieving the Dream and the Carnegie Foundation.

Each school will train a highly skilled and resilient workforce for high demand jobs. Short term training options will be offered through certifications and industry recognized credentials. These credentials will be stackable as individuals return to work, but would like to continue developing their skills.

Through the use of innovative instructional methods, participants will be accelerated through training as well as gain hands-on experience working in their Program of Study.

Job development and internship opportunities are essential components of the program.

Visit pccc.edu/nrc for more information.
