Publications

Dr. Christine Redman-Waldeyer, Coordinator of the Journalism Option Program and English Department Instructor, recently had her article "Making Connections in Literature" published in Innovation Abstracts, the academic newsletter of the National Institute for Staff and Organizational Development (NISOD) of the College of Education, The University Texas at Austin. Congratulations Dr. Redman-Waldeyer.

Presentations

Dec. 2 - Maria Mazziotti Gillan, Director of the Poetry Center at PCCC, has published a new book What We Pass On: Collected Poems 1980-2009 (Guernica, 2010) and will be reading works from the volume at the Montclair Public Library (auditorium), 50 South Fullerton Avenue, Montclair, NJ at 7 pm. This evening of poetry is open to the public, free admission, and will be followed by an open reading. For additional information contact Marilyn Kahn @ 973.744.0500
Faculty/Staff News – December 2010 (continued)

Other

Dec. 1 & 2 - Mark Tambone, Instructor in the English Department, directs a staged-reading in the competition for the Seventh Annual New Jersey Playwrights Contest. The play is WOMEN AND GUNS by Steve Gold, which will be read November 30 and December 1 and 2 in the Hunziker Black Box on the campus of William Paterson University

November 2010

Publications

Professor Meghan Austin, Instructor in the English Department in Developmental English, has had a flash fiction piece "Cars" published in the 2ndHand, a print and online literary magazine featuring new short writing from working authors across the US. http://www.the2ndhand.com/web69/cars.html

Dr. Christine Redman-Waldeyer, Coordinator of the PCCC Journalism Program and Instructor in the English Department has published:

Poems “Sunflower” and “Crystal Ball” published in the fall issue of Shot Glass Journal, an online international poetry journal sponsored by Muse-Pie Press. The poems can be found by going to the Muse-Pie Press site at www.musepiepress.com and clicking on ‘Shot Glass Journal’ on the menu. Both poems are a part of her upcoming third collection of poetry “The Red Zone” that will be published soon by Muse-Pie Press. Congratulations to Dr. Redman-Waldeyer.

Presentations

The 2010 Two-Year College Association (TYCA) Conference, Washington D.C, November 4-6

Dr. Christine Redman-Waldeyer, Coordinator of the PCCC Journalism Program and Instructor in the English Department
Public Writing: Linking Journalism, the College Newspaper, and Composition

Professor Alexandra Della Fera (along with Elizabeth Nesius & Ken Ronkowitz of the Writing Center)
Writing Connection: Bridging the Gap between High School and College

Professor Kelly Bender (along with Elizabeth Nesius of the Writing Center) Collaborative Assessment: Working Together toward Institutional Change.

Other

Mark Hillringhouse, Assistant Professor, English Department appears on National Public Radio, November 19, 2010. The news program “All Things Considered” will feature a discussion of his writings about the Passaic River. The segment airs at 4:30 pm over WNYC-FM 93.9 and WNYC-AM 820.

Mark Tambone, Instructor in the English Department, directs a staged-reading in the competition for the Seventh Annual New Jersey Playwrights Contest. The play is WOMEN AND GUNS by Steve Gold, which will be read November 30 and December 1 and 2 in the Hunziker Black Box on the campus of William Paterson University.